Knowing when to ask for Support is not always simple.

Most families start this search because something has changed: a parent needs more help, a spouse is worried, or daily life feels less steady.

At North Haven, we start with a conversation, not a sales appointment.

Where things stand now

Staying independent matters. But something has shifted, and the question of what comes next is starting to feel more urgent.

What feels at risk

Asking for help can feel like giving up choice, privacy, routine, or a sense of home.

North Haven is designed for both independence today,
and the right *support over time.

A Different Kind of Senior Living, Built for Real Life.

At North Haven, care is not about taking over. It is about helping each person feel safe, respected, and at home.

This Is Their Home

Residents are not treated like guests passing through. Daily routines, preferences, and a sense of home matter here.

Care Comes With Dignity

Support can be added when needed, without making independence feel smaller.

Honest Communication

Families deserve clear answers, realistic guidance, and conversations without pressure.

“You are not handing them off. You are getting a partner.”

Care That Grows With You.

North Haven offers three levels of support, so residents can begin where they are and adjust as their needs change.

INDEPENDENT LIVING

For residents who are not ready for assisted living, but home is not as easy as it used to be. Their time, their schedule, and their life, with support nearby if needs change.

- Private apartment living
- Chef-prepared, restaurant-style dining
- Community, activities, and support close by

ASSISTED LIVING

For residents who want independence, with support for daily needs in their home.

- Support with daily routines
- Help available around the clock
- A plan shaped around each resident

MEMORY CARE COMING SOON

For residents living with memory loss who need a calmer, more structured environment, and for the families who

- Specialized memory support
- Safer, more structured daily rhythm
- Care that still sees the person, not just the diagnosis

*Start with independence.
Add support when needed.
